

Inspire your team.
Pedagogical Leadership in Early Childhood Education

You can lead the learning.

Pedagogical Leadership in Early Childhood Education

(HMSV3504) is designed for those working in early childhood settings that want to learn methods to mentor and guide their team toward pedagogical models that are positive, responsive, respectful, and relational while encouraging exploration and experimentation.

Evolve your philosophy and practice by discovering new connections between teaching, learning, knowledge, society, and politics. This research-informed course is perfect for leaders that are implementing or changing curriculum approaches in their organization, but desire more information on how to lead their teams to adapt to new ways of knowing and being.

Take this course as part of the Health and Human Services Management program or as a single course through open studies (with department approval). Available online and in-class.
